Make the ONS Journals Part of Your Online Collection

Whether you wish to build a new electronic collection of nursing journals or view the electronic full-text versions of your existing print journal collection, you can meet all your needs with full access to journal content online. Subscribe to the Clinical Journal of Oncology Nursing or the Oncology Nursing Forum, and you will receive unlimited and unrestricted online access. ONS online journal subscriptions offer institutions:

- Advanced search functionality
- Categorization of articles by content area for ease of use
- Improved navigation and display
- Archived articles available from 2002 to present
- Articles available in both HTML and PDF formats
- Access to content through IP authentication (no sign-in required)
- Access to usage reports compatible with COUNTER formatting via your account portal that you create and manage.

For a more detailed view of our online journal content, please visit cjon.ons.org or onf.ons.org.

Subscribe to the new ONS Voice

The ONS Voice is the Society’s new engine for news, views, and advocacy.

The ONS Voice is a centralized location for oncology nurses and healthcare providers who care for patients with cancer to get the latest news and information about oncology or nursing.

Your institution can subscribe to monthly issues of ONS Voice for only $65 per year, or receive all 12 issues of this valuable publication at a 15% discount when ordering a one-year joint subscription with the Clinical Journal of Oncology Nursing and the Oncology Nursing Forum (see inside order form for full details on this special offer and on the full range of subscription options).
Continuing a Tradition of Excellence

Oncology Nursing Forum

For more than 40 years, the Oncology Nursing Forum (ONF) has provided in-depth and relevant content to generations of oncology nurses. ONF is a peer-reviewed journal offering detailed coverage of the latest information in nursing research, education, and ethics.

In 2016, articles in ONF focused on a variety of topics relevant to nursing practice, including professional burnout in oncology nurses; patterns of response in parents of children with cancer; factors influencing nurses’ use of hazardous drug safe-handling precautions; coping with moral distress in oncology practice; and using surrogacy care plans to enhance communication and cancer care coordination.

• ONF is currently indexed in the British Nursing Index, CINAHL, MEDLINE®, EBSCO Health Source: Nursing/Academic Edition database, Index Medicus, PsyCINFO, ProQuest Nursing and Allied Health Source, OCLC ArticleFirst, and the Science Citation Index’s Current Contents (Social and Behavioral Sciences and Clinical Medicine), Research Alert, Social Sciences Citation Index®, and Science Citation Index Expanded®.

• Six issues are published annually.

• ONF is available as a print or online-only subscription.

• FREE online access to all journal articles (with issues dating back to 2002) and content is included with your print subscription.

Subscribe Now!
A subscription to the 2017 ONF is available for just $324 for one year in print or online.

Clinical Journal of Oncology Nursing

Now in its 20th year, the Clinical Journal of Oncology Nursing (CJON) is consistently read by more than 39,000 oncology nurses and provides the practical and crucial information nurses need to deliver high-quality care to patients with cancer and their families.

In 2016, nurses accessed articles on a range of topics, including the role of exercise in cancer-related fatigue, stress levels of nurses in oncology outpatient units, screening for lung cancer, and hazardous drug safety.

Each issue of this popular journal features concise, clinically focused articles nurses can use in their everyday practice setting; information on cancer treatments, symptom management, and integrating research into clinical practice; as well as numerous continuing nursing education opportunities.

• CJON is currently indexed in CINAHL®, MEDLINE®, EBSCO Health Source: Nursing/Academic Edition database, PsyCINFO, ProQuest Nursing and Allied Health Source, and OCLC ArticleFirst.

• Six issues are published annually.

• CJON is available as a print or online-only subscription.

• FREE online access to all journal articles (with issues dating back to 2002) and content is included with your print subscription.

With your library patrons seeking an edge in professional education and looking for information they can apply in their workplace, this affordable publication will complete your oncology nursing collection.

Subscribe Now!
A subscription to the 2017 CJON is available for just $324 for one year in print or online.

Order Three Award-Winning Publications for One Low Price

Your institution can save 15% when ordering a joint subscription to the Oncology Nursing Forum, the Clinical Journal of Oncology Nursing and ONS Voice. See the order form for full details on this special offer and on the full range of subscription options.